Dean Hann leading out in program.

Who comes to mind when we mention a straightforward guy, who loves basketball, the Chicago Bears, and sleeping late in the morning? Who always knows exactly which young ladies his guys have been eyeing? And who else has the same honest manner of saying exactly what he means every time?

That's right, Dean Hann, this one's for you.

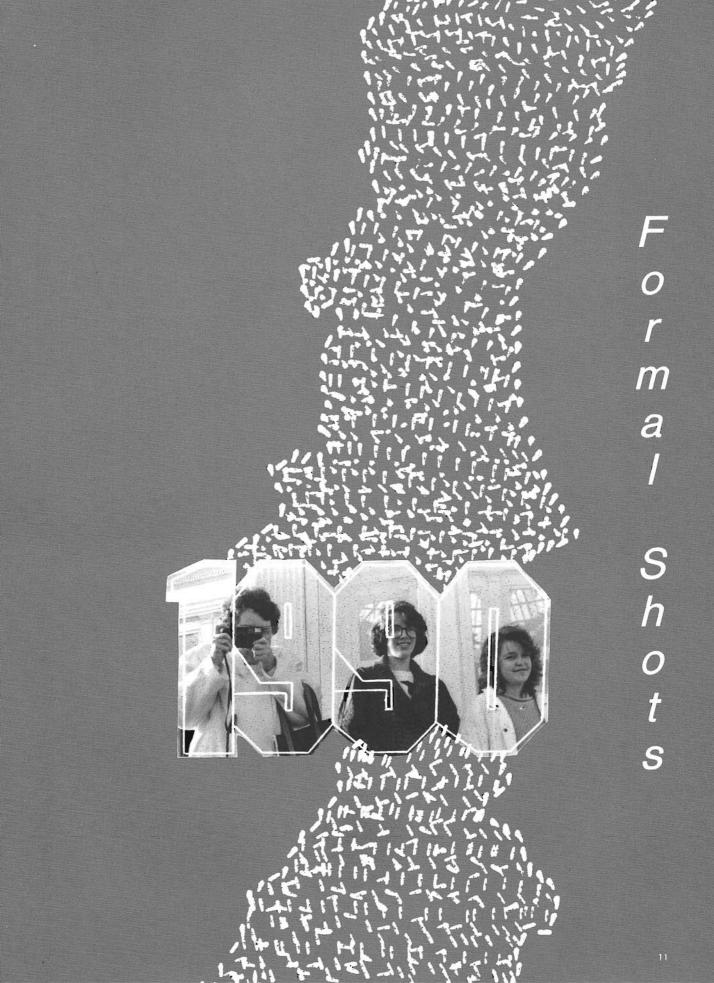

We'll always remember your teasing remarks, your stubborn competitive streak, and those little chats with your guys in the dorm. Thank you for all the advice on tying ties, making free throws, and of course, understanding the frustrating female race. Thank you for knowing that sometimes kids need to have fun, and thank you for those times you believed in us and gave us a second chance. You've been a father and a friend and we appreciated it even if we never ould by. This yearbook is for you, Dean Hann, and thanks again for everything.

to 1990 Maplewood Family

"Love Grows Here" was the theme of our fall Week of Prayer, and the spirit it excited was beautiful see on the campus. Maplewood Academy provided to the environment--water and fertilizer for growth-spiritually, socially, and physically. As the year comes to a close, look back on the relationship you've had with God. Did He grow more precious to you? Do you have a closer and wider circle of friends? Are you more tolerant and caring toward your fellow students, parents, and teachers? Have you taken the time to say thank you to those friends, parents, teachers and others for making your stay at Maplewood possible and profitable? Is the body God gave you a better temple for Him to dwell in? If you can answer positively to these questions, you have made the best use of your time this year by Letting Love Grow and by turning your life around to God, allowing Him to change you as He desires, to prepare you for Eternity.

School Begins August 20

Quite a turnout on Registration Day!

Peter, meet Steve. Steve, meet Peter.

Everyone intently listening to Mr. Wilson's welcome.

August 20, 1989 was a warm, sunny summer day, but for Maplewood students, the new school year was already beginning. The day was filled with endless registration lines, mug shots for the Maplenuts, moving into dorms and meeting new roommates. After saying goodbye to Mom and Dad and hello to old friends, we gathered on the lawn for our first taste of cafeteria food. Later we met in the chapel for the annual handshake before enjoying root beer floats from the A.S.B. Enrollment was down from the last few years but the spirit of fun was still there and it promised to be a good year.

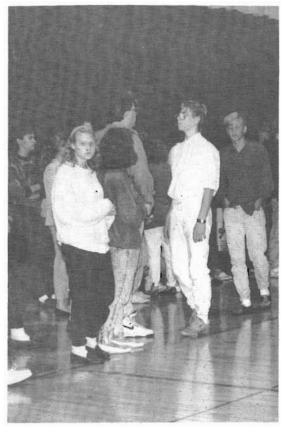

Rhonda and Shawn, expressing their glee!!!

Preparing for the Junk Scramble.

Chad directing the freshman trio.

Competitive feelings were evident as our famous Junk Scramble began on August 26. Twisted piles of miscellaneous junk rose out of the gym floor, shouts and screams echoed throughout the building, and dozens of students scurried around planning their strategies for the upcoming battle. With each class gathered in their appropriate corners, Mr. Swanson proceeded to the middle of the gym and called for the first item. Yellow shoelaces, stuffed panda bears, electric fans, and Timberwolves T-shirts flew in all directions while students searched for the perfect piece of junk. The underclassmen made a good showing but when the last of the junk had been scrambled, the mighty senior class of Tedi, we're glad you survived the escapade!

Dark rain clouds threatened to spoil our fun on Labor Day, September 4, but fortunately the sun appeared and we had a great day on the Apple River in Wisconsin. Some students had a calm, peaceful day floating down the river, but most of us endured many violent attacks as our inner tubes were capsized time after time. When the last courageous soul had braved the raging waters, we dried off and devoured a picnic supper before heading back to school.

Chad adding music to program.

At first it was just another typical worship in the Girls' Dorm. Missy sat down at the piano while Jolene, Becky, and Tiffany stood up to lead song service. Suddenly, the chapel doors burst open and the entire male population of our campus rushed into the room. It was the beginning of a very eventful evening. The men entertained the ladies for several hours with worship talks about prayer, special music, bike tricks in the gym and a slam dunk competition. Our evening concluded with refreshments and a lovely rendition of "Good Night Ladies."

Love Grows Here

Buzz Menhardt was our Week of Prayer speaker.

Do you remember these sayings: "No matter who you may be, God's love for you is free." "No mater how bad the sin, God still takes you in." "While you still can, live by God's good plan."

Buzz Menhardt brought us these truths and more when he conducted our Fall Week of Prayer this year. His enthusiasm and friendly spirit inspired all of us as he spent the week teaching us new songs and telling us about God's unconditional love. At first he seemed a little surprised at how reserved Minnesota kids could be, but soon he had us loosened up and everyone began responding with "Amen" and "That's Right." The week ended with a special communion service at the church.

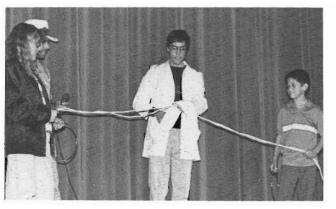

Say "Cheese!!!"

Swanie, can you say "Cheese," too?"

This year, the annual Church Talent Night featured an interesting combination of old and new talents. On Saturday evening, October 7, we gathered for a program that included traditional numbers such as poetry readings, a skit by the ladies, and several familiar songs. One of the more unique parts of the program was a tune played on a saw. Later on, we had the opportunity to listen to some music by our own Maplewood men. Chad Foerderer sang and played the piano and the quartet of Justin, Dan, Doug, and Matt presented two selections.

On a sunny October weekend, our school was once again visited by hundreds of those who walked this same campus before us. They spent the weekend meeting old friends and reliving the great memories of teenage years. The programs included choral selections, old-fashioned talent and of course, the popular Bucks-Alumni basketball game. Our guys battled fiercely but the alumni came out nine points ahead in the end. It was a memorable weekend that made us all realize how much our campus has changed through the years and how little the people have changed.

Weekend Activities

Come on, Louise, you can do it.

On your feet, not your seat, Jodi.

Saturday night lyceums were definitely among the most unique programs we attended all year. The topics ranged greatly from a magical science act to a two-man Huck Finn show, complete with numerous musical solos. One of the more memorable lyceums was entitled "A Concert in Chalk." Another popular weekend activity was ice skating and hockey at the local arena.

Tedi wonders if she really wants to go out there.

"The Studs" perform: Scott, Randy, Josh.

A tunnel of white lights and a towering twenty-two foot Christmas tree greeted students and faculty as they entered the ad building for the ASB Christmas Banquet on December 10. The colorful tree ornaments included hanging slates with messages from students to their friends. Entertainment for the evening featured Darcy Strong singing "O, Holy Night." and the men's quartet with an arrangement of "Jingle Bells." Before moving to the chapel for a film, we were introduced to some new talent when Scott Johnson, Josh Skelley, and Randy Bergh attempted an amusing rendition of "Rudolph, the Red Nosed Reindeer."

Kelsey and Brian are happy.

Seniors Decorate Dorms

A horrible racket of clanging utensils and screaming girls filled the halls of both dorms at 3:00 a.m. on Sunday, December 10. After hours of decorating the dorms with bright lights and shiny ornaments, the senior class awakened the sleeping underclassmen to view their handiwork. The guys even entered the girls' dorm lobby legally for awhile to sample homemade cookies and hot chocolate. Cold showers for Mrs. Siepman, Mr. Wellborn, and several unfortunate young men completed the activities.

On Wednesday, January 24, 1990, a group of students, staff, and members from around Minnesota, left for the airport and the third annual Maranatha trip. In addition to the two weeks away from school and the cold winter, they received the blessing of helping others by building a church in the Dominican Republic.

Make it look good, Lonna.

From English to geography to photography, opportunities for learning are plentiful at Maplewood. Most of us will never forget Mr. Swanson's amazing ability to remember Civil War battles and constitutional amendments. Mr. Hardt's jokes were another popular highlight for junior and senior Bible classes. Do you also remember collecting insects in biology class or launching water balloons for physics? Or what about our favorite P.E. drills, spelling tests, and algebra exams? Although most of us will eventually forget the pythagorean theorem, we will always remember the dedicated faculty who taught us that turning around to Christ is the best way to find wisdom.

Responsibility and job experience are only two of the skills we gained from work assignments. We also had our share of water fights in the cafeteria, staple fights at the mill, and whatever other mischief we managed to get into. Some of our most amusing Maplewood memories were made with our co-workers at Harris Pine Mill, American Energies, the dorms, maintenance crews, the cafeteria, or ad building offices. Maybe a few of you found your lifetime careers here at Maplewood, but most of us just found the incentive to go on to bigger and better things.

His mechanical ability and creativity amaze us, and Shawn Lowe is one guy who is not afraid to march to his own beat.

A talented musician and gymnast, Justin Harl is one of those people who always leaves us smiling. Lydell Renk is a gifted vocalist but we'll also remember his ability to add laughter to even the most boring classes.

She's an understanding friend and a good listener, but Jennifer Peterson's mschievous grin and teasing remarks may catch you off guard at times.

Cheri Williams is an easygoing girl who can take whatever life hands her and laugh at it.

Tammy Yauger is an outgoing friend who is always first to say "hi" to a stranger or lend a hand with a job.

Glen Anderson, better known as "Cleaver" was a funny, easygoing friend, who never got mad until we teased him about Iowa. Although he tried to convince us that Elvis was alive, Greg Terhark was still a pretty normal guy who didn't mind laughing at himself.

She didn't let us forget that she was from sunny California, but Louise Davidson adjusted to us very well and always took time to chat with friends.

Aaron Rogge was an enthusiastic student and a hard worker who took special interest in every subject he studied.

Leanne Schultz loved to giggle and she had a worry-free attitude that brightened up every day. Meri Beth Cornforth was an outgoing, generous friend who was full of creative ideas to chase away the boredom.

Damon Johnson was always laughing and happy and could be counted on to ease any difficult situation by joking you into better spirits. No one was a stranger to Jolene Gorans, an enthusiastic athlete destined to become the basketball star of

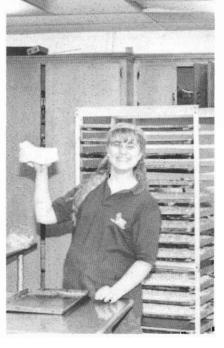

A good leader and talented violinist, Ann Swanson was one who could always see the funny side of any situation.

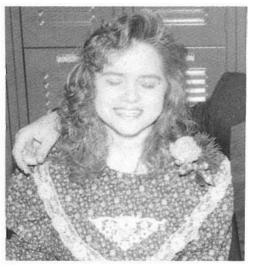

Denae Kelstrom was talented in both band and Choraliers, but we will most remember her cheerful smile and unselfish friendship. Crystal Zill was a sweet friend and a conscientious worker who believed in doing every task the right way.

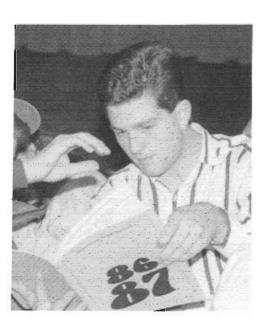

Darcy Stong was a talented vocalist who laughed at her troubles and always said exactly what she meant.

Kindhearted Missy Anderson was a diligent student who always had a sweet smile for everyone.

Although he loved to tease, Vonn Williams was a loyal friend who always took time to listen and talk about problems.

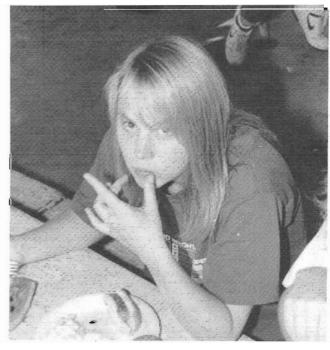

Jamie Madden had the right idea about life- relax, live a balanced life, and enjoy things as they are.

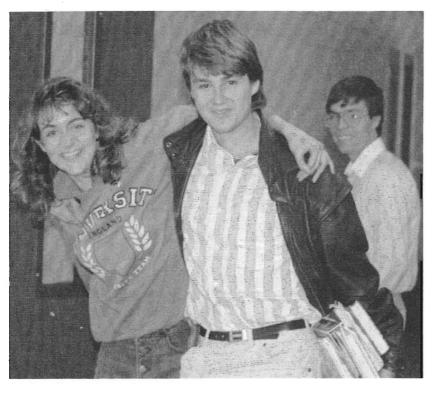

Courteous and quiet, Keri Larsen seemed to have a mischievous side that some of us didn't notice at first.

Holly Wash was a patient listener and a great friend to have fun with.

Rhonda Erickson was a good leader, talented student, hard worker, and she was a person who would do anything for a friend.

Becky Lane was the one you saw poking her head in your classes giving you that encouraging smile; she was good humored and always took our fun teasing. Some of his remarks were a little bit off beat, but we appreciated Alex Hamilton's common sense and unique way of looking at life.

His humor may have been sarcastic, but Joe Zillmer was a considerate friend, a responsible worker, and a great basketball player.

Jodi Iffert was a real perfectionist who kept busy with gymnastics, yearbook, music, and many other ativities.

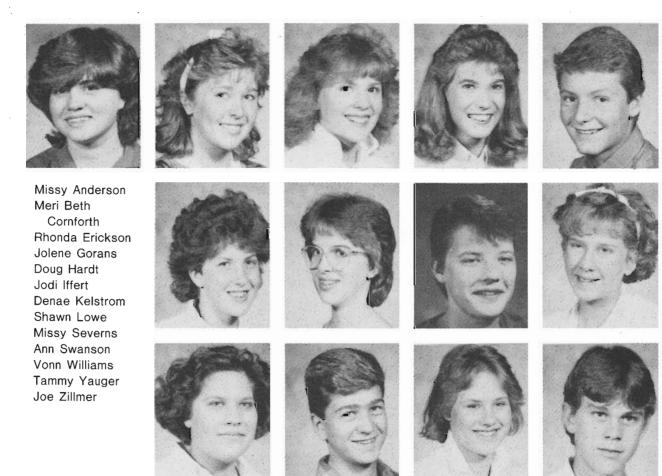

Bob Crane was a thoughtful, caring friend, but he didn't hesitate to stand up for his rights. Mike Cox was a talented photographer who knew how to have fun and live every day to the fullest.

Although she was most known for her piano playing ability and fun-loving spirit, Missy Severns was also a very trustworthy friend. Doug Hardt was a gifted athlete, student, and leader, but we will also remember his end-less supply of unforgettable puns.

Are you ready for Jesus to come? Have you let love grow in your heart this year? Have you turned your life around to Christ, whose loving heart desires to take you home to live with Him, to a place where there will be no more war, no more hurricanes, earthquakes, tornadoes, hijackings, disease or murder? During this school year alone, we have witnessed many tragic occurances which all point to the nearness of the Lord's return. Early in the school year Hurricane Hugo struck South Carolina, leaving many homeless.	Then before they had recovered from Hugo, Latifornia was hit by the second largest earthquake their area had ever experienced. While they were still counting victims, China entered the earthquake picture. Plane crashes, hijackings, kidnappings, and holding hostages are happening at an alarming rate. Closer to home we have witnessed the state of Minnesota pull together in the search for Jacob Wetterling, an eleven year old boy abducted near his home; while his brother and friend watched, helpless to prevent it. We also watched the peaceful city of Hutchinson real in shock as big city violence came to its community, when Philip Cole shot and killed police officer Mike Hogan, who was only questioning him about returning stolen merchandise.	Still closer, we here at Maplewood, experienced a potentially disasterous fire in the girls' dorm. Fortunately no one was injured. Many of our Maplewood family have been touched by death or serious injury to self or those they love.	Even as disaster has been falling all around us, parts of the world have been recognizing evil for what it really is. No one ever expected the Berlin Wall to come down, but it did in 1989. Two countries realized the corruption of their leaders and did something about it. Panama ousted its drug trafficking leader, and Romania executed its president and his wife for Hitler type crimes.	Are you happy with the world as it is? Do you want it to continue as it has been, or are you looking forward to the Lord's return? In the 1990 Maplelog we have attempted to remind you to "turn your life around to Christ," for it is the only way you'll find hope in a world that is falling apart all around you; it's the only way you'll be prepared and satisfied to spend eternity with your Savior, in a place where there will be no more evil, and only peace to take its place.	In Christian love, Your 1990 Maplelog Staff
