Pieces Together

At the beginning of the year, we all needed adjustment. Some of us were required to adapt to an entirely new lifestyle – new home, new classes, new teachers, and most of all, new friends. For others, the first week served as an opportunity to rekindle old friendships. Soon enough, we all became inseparably meshed, and we realized how much we have all changed, how much we have grown up, yet how much our love for each other has remained.

--Marleigh Rannow & Rachel Webb

Our First Week

Cat-like Chelsea slowly creeps toward Chris to attack him with a water bottle.

Hannah gives one of her famous Canadian bear hugs.

Slimy...yet...satisfying.

Chris' pyro-side starting to show through.

Tiffany and Kristen have fun moving into their first dorm room.

Let's see if we can build a human tree!

Ah-choo!

Did somebody say "Hiyahh"?

Matt and Jake look very mischievous.

Missy waves to the camera after the fist sabbath of the year potluck.

Faculty Dedication

Through the years we have watched this woman travel from cows to elephants. She occupies her time as a Junior class sponsor, Sabbath School superintendent, Drama Club director and the English teacher. As she introduces the Freshman to portfolios, Sophomores to essays and the Juniors to research papers, the Seniors go on to graduate with superior english skills that they find themselves thankful for once they move on to college.

Always welcoming students into her home, she entertains them and gives them treats. She always provides a shoulder to cry on and she comforts us with kind, meaningful words.

Mrs. Siepman, the Maple Log staff of 2001 would like to dedicate this yearbook to you...Thank you for your dedication through the years!

The multilingual quartet receives first.

"Oowie! What a bowling game!"

Heidi is Oh, so cute cuddled in her towel.

"Watch out Jake! Tanner's exploding!"

The Freshmen girls love to spice things up.

The beginning year of high school is probably one of the hardest. But this year, the Freshman class is not afraid of sticking out. Fun loving, witty, and full of charisma, the class of 2004 makes a never before seen impression on Maplewood Academy. Some shy, and some bold but none are afraid to show what's on their mind.

--Kristal Imler

"What are you lookin' at?"

"What's that word?"

"I think I just glued this paper to my eye!"

"Look Jack! I'm flying!"

"Are you telling me I have something on my face?"

It was the best of times, it was the worst of times – it was Geometry class, and we Sophomores were at it again. A rowdy and vivacious crew, the Class of 2003 adds an exciting element of spirit to the Maplewood Academy campus. Always ready with a witty remark, this class will be remembered for its clever sense of humor. This year holds a striking contrast to the last through the many individuals that have recently joined the Sophomore scene. Seven new faces appeared in the class at the start of the year, bringing with them a fresh perspective. They added to the “uniqueness” of the group and helped to compose a vibrant array of young people.

--Rachel Webb

Skippy asks, "Who stole all the P.B.?"

Superstar!

Katrina ponders her frantic day.

Laura grins graciously for the photographer.

Peter displays his tranquil, yet spunky look.

"Come, let us change the world together."

Carmen spins around saying, "Hey, wait til I check you

Missy and Ashley grin innocently as they hide their plans to take over MWA.

"No, it's my apple!"

Matt, Jordan, Andrew and Devan join together and sing, "And I will always love you..."

Having overcome the many obstacles this year has thrown at us – essays, outlines, and research papers, we are finally ready to call this hectic time over. We will now charge into the final year of our high school careers with heads held high and the promises the future will bring at our fingertips. We have definitely been a class of individuals, marching to the beat of our own drums. However, we will unite for the final leg of our journey. The impenetrable bonds we have formed have overshadowed our contrasting personalities. Though the classes are finally over, the memories will last forever.

--Kasi Swonger

Who needs class? The lobby is much more fun!

Look, I'm Pipi Longstocking!

"Ho-hum, isn't rec. just tons of fun?"

"Why did I ever agree to talk in front of these people?"

"Pikachu, is that you?"

Seniors! Seniors! Seniors! Seniors!

Some students have come, more have gone, yet the Class of 2001 will graduate before long. Our creative fervor and curiosity for life has taught teachers to expect the unexpected when we walk through the door. We fondly remember lively class clowns, outbursts of song, and rebellion Geometry class. If we could relive our high school years, our teachers might try to change some things, but would we? Although we've matured greatly since August 1997, we'll forever remain young at heart.

--Jonathan Hilliard

OUTREACH

Campus Ministries Outreach Program

Students volunteer to help sing up front in church.

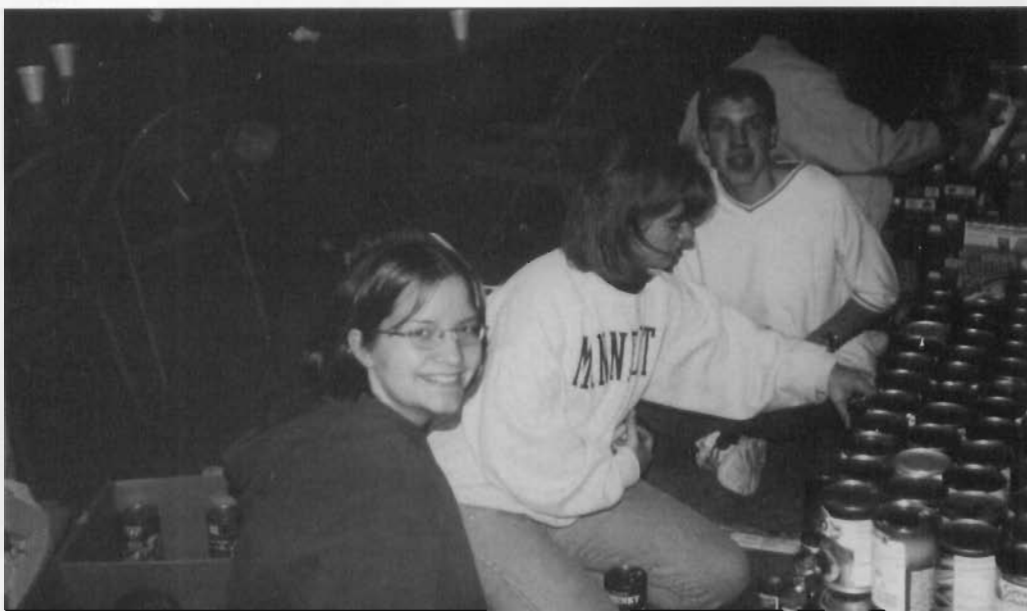

Outreach activities put on by Maplewood Academy help students spread their faith to others and build their own relationship with God. Activities like walking door to door collecting canned goods for the food shelf on chilly nights and building a church in the small, warm country of Costa Rica give the youth a chance to reach out to people and touch their lives.

Outreach helps students think about others. It also makes them feel good about themselves because they have done an act of kindness that has made Jesus smile down on them.

--Laura Cummings

Look at all the cans I collected!

I love you all!

Dancing in the name of the Lord.

Chris Eno and Hiedi Anderson share their talents with the church.

Where do these go?

Leo Schreven, the speaker for the All Power Seminar.

Students from across Minnesota joined us in learning about God.

Week Of Prayer

Pieces of Power

Leo Schreven talked about getting together with God, the goodness of daily devotions and how that is one of many steps to take to become closer to knowing and understanding God. He went through at least seven seminars in just a couple of days.

Talking to us with speed and ease, he took us on a fast tour through his book explaining each step and giving bible verses to prove what he was saying. One of the many verses he used was Ephesians 6:10, "be strong in the Lord, and in the 'Power' of His might."

A lot of the time we, as students, underestimate the time and effort our staff sacrifices for us. We definitely appreciate the hard work they have done. The little things they do – making us laugh, taking time out of their busy schedules to patiently listen to our problems, helping us with difficult assignments, or even just throwing a smile or a “Hello” in our direction – help us recognize them as not only great staff members, but as friends. They have dedicated their lives to teaching us and giving us a clearer understanding of God. We can not thank you enough. You’re the BEST!!

Music

Music is a way for the students to forget about school and sing or play away their homework blues. It gives us a way to get off campus and share our talents with the world. On these trips, you will quite often see the bus rockin' with the sound of voices singing songs for God.

Recreation Time

Rec. time is when we all get to just relax and have fun. This time is for everyone, not just the athletes. People are found socializing just as much as playing an intramural game.

Hey you! Yeah, we're talking to you. Havn't you ever seen paper people before?

Wow, Nyahon! Your tall.

The hack king.

What Suspense.

"Oooh, oooh! Get it, get it, get it!"

...and so I said, "Kumbaya!"

The Village People

LIFE BEYOND CAMPUS

Being village has a few downsides, but for the most part, it sure beats dorm life. For instance, we don't have a set town day--every day is a town day for us. We have "privileges" such as driving cars, running to Burger King during free periods, and best of all--we don't have to go to 4 o'clock programs!

--Chris Morrison

Why don't we have a nap period?

It's a battle of village players! Who will win?

5<sup>TOP</sup>

Reasons why being village ROCKS!

- #5 -- No set town day
- #4 -- No lights out
- #3 -- Don't need to spend $.50 per load of laundry
- #2 -- You don't have to do your own laundry
- #1 -- You can watch PG movies

Winter Festival

SPIRIT WEEK

This year, the number of students and staff that participated in Spirit Week, outnumbered the few who did not. This week brought with it a nice change in pace for the long winter months. Though it was close, the sophomores recieved a well deserved victory with their near to 100% participation.

Maple S.E.E.D.s

Students Enacting Evangelistic Drama

This year, Ms. Siepman and Ms. Shields took the initiative to form a drama team here at Maplewood Academy. The result? Twenty-two students enthusiastically leapt at the opportunity. The drama team – known as the Maple S.E.E.D.s – made its debut around Christmastime and has been thriving ever since.

Performing a program entitled “The Call of the Cross,” the Maple S.E.E.D.s have journeyed to multiple churches around the state, and have succeeded in earning a stunning reputation.

More importantly, however, Maple S.E.E.D.s provides a way for the students to minister their love to an eager world.

Costa Rica Mission Trip

Taking the time and the opportunity to give back to others with what God has given to us.

Lawren and Mandi agree that men in uniform are the way to go.

An all-night car wash, a rather loud disco, roosters, and fierce heat. These were all the things that managed to keep us awake while we were in Costa Rica. We awoke at 4:30 am every morning to try and "beat the heat" as much as possible. While on the job site we met new friends, worked hard, and had fun trying to get coconuts down out of the trees. There was a great sense of accomplishment when all the walls were up on the church, and even more so when we saw how happy the people were to have a church near their homes. This trip not only gave a church to the people of Paso Canoas, but it also gave a wonderful experience to us. We learned that we have so much to be thankful for and that with God you can be happy regardless of your circumstances.

Schiller's a stud in his sleeveless work gear.

Project
Complete!

Chris:

This year was exceptionally easy and wonderful to participate in the making of which I spent countless hours working on. I'd really like to thank Taumi and Lyndsey, but it'd have been nice if they had actually helped at least a little.

Taumi:

Now just wait a minute, Buster! If anyone deserves credit, it's me! I gave up many free periods, study halls and rec. to work on this yearbook. Didn't I do a fabulous job?

Lyndsey:

I don't know what they're talking about. Everyone knows that the brain of this operation was me. I spent long mornings and late nights on this baby, so I deserve all the credit.

All:

We think it is pretty obvious that we enjoyed ourselves on this project. We hope that this yearbook will be a fun way to look back on your memories of this year. We have proved our theme, Pieces Together, true by pulling three different people together to complete one job (that is not implying we are 'alone' incapable, by the way).

We want to thank the staff for the extra long hours you each put in. Pastor Gregg, you deserve a medal for what you have done. You surpassed the job requirements by far and we appreciate it more than you know. We thank-you for your time, dedication, and especially your patience over the past year. It could not have been easy to pull off with a staff full of rookies. We thank all of you, the students and staff, for making this year worth looking back on. Most of all we thank God for giving us the creativeness and strength to get this done.
